Facility Will Operate at Sheppard House

Rutgers University celebrated a dedication ceremony of the Cousteau Center at Bridgeton. The location is home to a satellite resource and information center of the Jacques Cousteau National Estuarine Research Reserve. The facility will operate from the newly renovated historic David Sheppard House.

Rutgers University held a ribbon-cutting ceremony at the dedication ceremony of the Cousteau Center at Bridgeton, a satellite resource and information center of the Jacques Cousteau National Estuarine Research Reserve. From left: Bridgeton Councilman Bill Spence, Councilwoman Gladys Lugardo, Michael Maitland, South Jersey director, Office of Senator Frank Lautenberg, Aileen McCandles, program specialist, Office of Senator Robert Menendez, Stephen Carnahan, NJ Agricultural Experiment Station (in back), Bill Carson, field representative, Office of Congressman Frank LoBiondo, Robert Goodman, dean, Rutgers University, Louis Maguzzu, Cumberland County Freeholder director; Jim Begley, mayor of Bridgeton; Celeste Riley, state assemblywoman; Cisco Werner, director, Institute of Marine and Coastal Sciences, Rutgers University; and Mike De Luca, senior associate director, Institute of Marine and Coastal Sciences, Rutgers University.